TANFORAN'S TURF SCANDAL.

Last Sunday's San Francisco Examiner gives the following details of the investigation of crooked work that promises to terminate the turf careers of a number of more or less prominent persons. It said:

"Sly was the favorite in a six furlong race at Tanforan early last week and she had breezed so nicely in the morning that Mr. Hanlon bet $600 on her. Ross, who rode her, got away several lengths in the lead, but she had no speed and was soon out of the hunt.

"Mr. Hanlon thought Ross, the rider, had not given him the best he had and began to chide him after the race.

"Mr. Hanlon, Ross is reported to have said, 'I did the best I could with your mare, but she didn't have a bit of speed. It is my opinion that she was got at in the stable.'

"That started Mr. Hanlon on a tour of inquiry. He became convinced that what Ross suggested was true, and finally 'Red' is said to have confessed that he had been approached by some one who said he was acting for a bookmaker who owned a string of horses. This agent asked 'Red' to administer an opium ball to the mare so that she would not have her speed. Under promise of a liberal reward 'Red' promised to do this, but subsequently changed his mind. He accomplished the desired purpose, however, by giving Sly a quantity of salt and letting her drink as much water as she would just before the race.

"Mr. Hanlon reported this to the board of stewards, who summoned a number of witnesses. Among them were John Coleman, the well-known bookmaker and Caesar Young, also a bookmaker and owner of a number of horses. The stewards questioned them at great length, and, while admitting that they have listened to some very startling disclosures, absolutely refuse to make public anything of the investigation. So the matter is still in the air."

"Jockey Piggott will not be allowed to ride at Oakland again, and there is every probability that when the stewards of the Pacific Coast Jockey Club have considered the evidence against him he will be ruled off the turf. At any rate, his license to ride on Turf Congress tracks will be taken away.

"D. J. Lynch will never be allowed to set foot on the Oakland track again. Neither will jockey Willie Martin. There is a strong probability that bookmakers Cook and Pesch, should they desire to 'cut in' at the track across the bay, will be requested to refrain from doing so.

"Suspicion has been cast upon jockey Milton Henry, the boy that Mr. Arkell, of Judge, paid $5,000 for a couple of weeks ago, and he will be at some trouble to clear himself. Trainer Coffey does not hesitate to say that Henry pulled Rosinante in a race last meeting at Oakland, and Edward Corrigan believes the boy stopped a couple of his horses at Tanforan last week.

"All of this is the result of an investigation begun by Mr. Williams soon after his return from a recent visit to the east. At that time he received an intimation that Piggott had been pulling some horses and that Lynch was mixed up in it. He hired detectives, had the movements of a number of suspected people closely watched and in two days had satisfied himself that for some months a gang had been profiting by Piggott's crooked riding.

"Mr. Williams and the stewards at Oakland were to some extent embarrassed by the fact that the most positive evidence they could obtain related to transactions at Tanforan. They did not desire to assume the position of disciplining malefactors at some other track. But the crookedness was too flagrant to overlook, and the result of the investigation was made known to the Tanforan authorities, while at the same time a decision was reached as to the treatment the wrongdoers were to receive at Oakland.

"Up to within a week or two ago no whisper was uttered against Piggott's reputation for honesty. At the Tanforan meeting previous to the one just ended, his riding of several favorites did not suit the judges. He was called into the stand half a dozen times. At the last meeting he refused to ride, giving as a reason that he thought the judges there 'had it in for him' and would rule him off if they had the chance.

"That what Piggott suspected was true, Messrs. Burke, Smith and Kuhl, who occupy the stand at Tanforan, admitted the other day. Mr. Burke said that they particularly objected to rides on Hard Knot and Combermerie, and were disposed to regard his rides in the future with a keen eye.

"It was his ride on Hard Knot that started the investigation, or, rather, first caused Piggott to be regarded with suspicion. In a seven furlong race Hard Knot was a warm favorite, but he made a wretched showing. Dr. Nembula won easily. Piggott told the judges that his horse would not try to run. He rode him hard the last part, cutting his sides with whip and spurs. The judges were not satisfied with the explanation, but could do nothing for lack of proof.

"On that race the sheets of bookmaker Pesch showed that he had won $2,200. There was a hedge of $500 on the sheets, purporting to show that $500 of the money taken off Hard Knot, which was practically the only horse he laid against, had been re-wagered so as to avoid too great a loss. But the book showing the loss and gain indicated that $2,200 had been won, which proved the hedge bet to be a hoax.

"Pesch at that time was booking for 'Dutch Fred' Cook, and his instructions were to lose no more than $300 to any race. That he took a chance for so large an amount shows that he 'knew something.'

"The next time Hard Knot started he won easily, although Arbaces was a warm favorite. Ed Lanigan, who owned part of Hard Knot, bet on him when he lost. When he won he bet on Arbaces. That gave him the idea that Lynch, who owned part of Hard Knot, was not treating him squarely, and it is probably Lanigan who is responsible for the commencement of the investigation.

"This much and a great deal more implicating Willie Martin, Mr. Williams ascertained to his entire satisfaction. But he wanted corroboration from some one who had been engaged in the nefarious operations. Mike Hennessy had been set down at Oakland for a suspicious ride on Lucidia. His name was mixed up in the Lynch gang operations, and to him Mr. Williams went.

"Mike," he said, 'there is a chance for you. But you can continue to ride horses upon one consideration, and that is that you tell me all you know about Lynch and Piggott.'

"Hennessy tried to squirm out of 'splitting' on Piggott, but upon being assured that if he did not both he and Piggott would be ruled off he made an affidavit which strongly accuses both Lynch and Piggott.

"Hennessy rode Hard Knot for Lynch once and was instructed not to be as good as third. He did the best he could, but could not pull the horse out of the show. Then becoming afraid that he would get into trouble, he refused to ride for Lynch again, and subsequently Piggott piloted Hard Knot. The day Nembula beat him Hennessy asked Piggott whether or not he should bet on the horse. 'Nothing doing,' Piggott replied, and Hennessy refrained from betting. The next time, when Hard Knot won, Hennessy says Piggott told him to bet on the horse.

"Hennessy also stated in his affidavit that one day when he was at Lynch's stable he recognized a horse as Pirate J., a three-year-old.

"Don't say anything about it," replied Lynch. 'We'll win a good bet on him some day. I'm going to start him as a two-year-old by Kingston.'

"Lynch, it is said, managed to do this with a horse called Perhaps at the old Bay District track several years ago.

"These are the main points of evidence against Piggott. But there are a hundred circumstances which corroborate the charges against him. Up to within a comparatively short time Piggott had never taken a drink. Recently he had been imbibing much champagne, spending a great deal of money and keeping loose company.

"Against Lynch not much evidence was required. His reputation for years has not been the most savory. Some time ago he was accused of debauching baseball players of the National League and American Association and procuring them to throw games so that he might profit by betting. He has had a lot of trouble in California on account of the running of his horses, and because of his alleged connection with the doping of one of Charles Boots' horses was ordered away from the California Jockey Club's track. His connection with a jumping race at Ingleside got him into trouble there, and for some time he was in disgrace. His connection with the Sharkey-Fitzsimmons fight at the Pavilion several years ago is still fresh in the minds of the sporting public.

"Jockey Henry is as yet only suspected. As soon as he began to get a reputation as a rider he started to drink and carouse around. Some of the bad rides he put up were ascribed to his anxiety to draw fine and artistic finishes. In the light of recent developments it looks as though he may have lost purposely."

Cue came from far back and was gaining fast at the end. Strongoli weakened badly a sixteenth from home when seeming dangerous. Midlove did well for a half mile only. Candlelight II showed speed.

Went to post at 2:30. At post 22 minutes. Start straggling. The first four were driving hard. Zanone went to the front in the first sixteenth on the inside rail. He was well ridden and saved ground all the way. Sweet Caporal was on the outside the entire route. He was hustled along from flag fall and fought it out gamely. Dutch Comedian was in a pocket going down the backstretch, but got through at the head of the stretch and finished strong. He would have been second in a few more jumps. Sparrow Wing ran a fine race and was well handled. Oliver Mc, much used, stopped in the last furlong.

Scratched—17497 The Gardener, 113; 17479 Laudeman, 110; (12903) Rhinelander, 110; 17472 Lindula, 106; 17490 Wine Press, 104; 17409 Bessie Taylor, 104.

Went to post at 3:20. At post 20 minutes. Start poor. The four leaders were driving hard. Yorkshire Boy broke well in motion and Bullman made the most of it. He was stopping at the finish. Vouch, Strategist and Silurian fought it out hard for the place. The delay at the post hurt Vouch. He was prominent in all the breakaways. Lambkin cut across Light Ball at the furlong pole and knocked the latter out of it. Graylette stumbled and fell at the turn.

Scratched—17483 Orderer, 113; 17483 Remsen, 101; 17400 Egyptian Prince, 101.

Went to post at 4:05. At post 5 minutes. Start good. Won driving; second easily. Laureatea got off with a running start but Doggett took her back under restraint when he should have gone on. Suniol got to her in the first sixteenth and made a runaway race of it. Feakes never made a move on The Laurel and kept her on the outside all the way. Candia came again at the end. Basilisk was out off at the start.
